THE HARRINGTON TRIAL ullivan's Testimony—The "Record" Attacked—No Damage Done—The Testimony Finished,

Yesterday morning the court-room was again crowded by those who went to hear the testimony in the case of Harrington. The first witness called for the defense this morning was Sullivan, the man, it will be remembered, whose inadvertency, if nothing worse, gave rise to the quarrel which resulted in Lynch's death.

Cornelius Sullivan, sworn. — I was O'Niel's partner, enough to go around with him and take a glass of beer with him [Counsei—That's a Nevada partnership]; saw no women in the chop-house.

Dr. Bergstein, recalled. — The Doctor produced the piece of skull which had been taken from Lynch's head before death. He also showed two pieces of a bullet found in different parts of the brain. The portion of skull was from the frontal bone, was about three inches wide and four inches long, as nearly as we could guess. There was still some congealed blood upon it. It showed the place where the ball entered by an indention of one of the edges about three-fourths of an inch deep and half an inch in width. He testifed that the force of the blow of the bullet against the skull had disarticulated the frontal bone from the anterior portion of the skull. The shoulder blade of Lynch and the bullet which lodged against it were also produced.

Dr. Lee, recalled—On the morning of which resulted in Lynch's death.

congeneed blood upon it. It showed the place where the ball entered by an indention of one of the edges about three-fourths of an inch deep and half an inch in width. He testifed that the force of the blow of the bullet against the skull thad disarticulated the frontal bone from the anterior portion of the skull. The shoulder blade of Lynch and the bullet which lodged against it were also produced.

Dr. Lee, recalled—On the morning of the shooting I examined O'Niel's head and found on it a wound about an inch in length. It appeared to have been made by a bindgeon of some kind.

Harrington paid for the supper I saw Schoonmaker raise his cane and strike O'Niel on the head. O'Niel and Schoonmaker then clinched and Harrington wentup to separate them; he put his hand on O'Niel; I didn't see him do anything to Schoonmaker. Harrington said, as he wentup, "What in the had a pistol pointed at Harrington, and I stepped between Harrington and Lynch and threw my hand up and toid Lynch not to shoot. My band was at the time extended towards Lynch's pistol to try to catch it. I tried to catch it; I would have knocked it down. A shot went off and went through my wrist; [shows the wound in the left wrist] I heard, altogether, five or six shots; directly after the first shot I heard another almost immediately.

Q. At the time you heard the second shot, what was Harrington doing? A. It have the condition of the shot in the great hard to be door a was not on trial, and sustained the objection of the prosecution. The defense excepted.

A. Three.

Q. Did you hear any other shots at that time? A. I did not.

J. B. Ayres sworn—Was in Pres. Wand's saloon, perhaps a hundred feet from Lynch's chop-house. I heard that he was in his room on Cedar street, about 400 yards from Lynch's chop-house, and heard only three shots. The cross-examination of this witness fleited no material fact. did you receive the wound in your left wist, from the first to the fifth or sixth shot fired which you have testified to?

A. The first shot that was fired.

Q Who fired that first shot? A. Lynch fired the first shot that was fired.

In answer to other questions] I couldn't say who fired the second shot. My hand was burned with powder and my wrist bleeding pretty rapidly. I attempted to catch or strike down Lynch's pistol; my hand was close to the muzzle of it, may be four or five inches. The length of time between the first and last shots could not be much greater than a minute or a minute and a half. When I heard the last shot I was standing about two feet off of the sidewalk holding my wrist; about fifteen feet from the door of Lynch's chop-house, opposite to it, but more toward Main street. When all the shooting that I heard was done, I walked up to the drug store where Dr. Leek keeps. There the constable (Smith Gray, I think) told me to consider myself under arrest. I had a pistol on when I was shot, but did not fire it at any one. That pistol [on the table] is mine; the number is 115,473. I delivered it to Smith Gray, I think) told me to consider myself under arrest. I had a pistol on when I was shot, but did not fire it at any one. That pistol [on the table] is mine; the number is 115,473. I delivered it to Smith Gray on the morning of the shooting. [He examines it.] It is in the same condition as when I delivered it to the constable.

CROSS EKAMINED.

Mr. Rives stated that his object was to impeach the witness.]

After I got outside I stopped when I heard the conversation of Schoonmaker and O'Niel. I heard Schoonmaker say something to O'Niel—I don't know what it was—and I heard O'Niel make the remark that I was a coward, or something to that effect. There was nothing more said between them. Next I saw Schoonmaker strike O'Niel with a cane. I didn't do auything that I know of upon Schoonmaker striking O'Niel. Harrington went up to put them apart; I think he did not do so; apparently he was trying. He tried, perhaps, for the space of a few minutes. During these few minutes I was looking towards the door. Harrington came out of the restaurant last.

At 2 p. m. the cross-examination of Sullivan was resumed, and after a few as resumed, and after a few sullivan was resumed, and after a few questions the jury were taken, in charge of the Sheriff, to the place of the shooting, in order that they might better understand the position of the parties. When the jury had returned, a large number of cross-questions were asked by the prosecution, but we are obliged to omit all but the most important ones.

Q.—Did you have any tussle, or did you grapple with any person on that you grapple with any person on that occasion? A.-I did not.

Q.—Are you sure that you did not tus-sle with Lynch on that occasion? A.— I am sure I did not.

After Sullivan showing the coat sleeve which had been burnt the defense rested. TESTIMONY IN REBUTTAL.

TESTIMONY IN BEBUITAL.

The prosecution called John E. Tyler who testified as follows: On the morning of the 6th of July I was standing in front of my saloon (the Capitol) about 60 or 70 yards from Lynch's chop-house.

Q. Did you hear any shots fired at the time mentioned? A. Yes.

Q. How many did you hear fired? [The defense objected to this question on the ground that the prosecution had asked the same question in the direct examination in their case; and further, that there had been no evidence introduced on the part of the defense proving or tending to prove the number of shots that Lab. He and O'Niel and Schoonmaker were three together.

Q. Do you know whether Harrington, the defendant here, fired either of these shots? A. I know that he didn't fire either of the two first shots.

Q. Tell the jury why you know that fact. A Because he was with Schoonmaker and O'Niel.

Q. At what time relative to the shots did you receive the wound in your left wast from the first to the fifth or sixty of the first to the fifth or sixty side of Main street fronting Meadow Valley street, distant from Lynch's chop house, about 500 feet. > at once. Evidently there is remissness somewhere, and whosoever has been instrumental in turning this creature loose upon the community, when by the terms of his sentence he ought to be serving out his time in the County Jail, ought to be made to pay the penalty. It is no wonder that Pioche has a bad name —it is not astonishing that capital shrinks from investment here—when those con-victed of crime are not punished. We propose following up these malefactors until they are brought to terms or decent people abandon the town to them entirely.

ALMOST AN ACCIDENT. - Yesterday morning there came near being an accident on Lacour street, at what was formerly the Capitol Restaurant, but is being fitted up as the Idaho Restaurant. A man was at work putting up a curtain over the glass door at the main entrance, when a missile struck a pane of glass above the man's head and barely missing a man on the other's right at the time. At first it was thought to be a stray ball from pistol or gun used in defense of life or honor, or perhaps for the fun of the thing, or from emotional insanity. An investigation showed that some men are blasting in rear of a browery on Lower Main street, and that a nail had been thrown across Main. Pioche and Lacour streets, a distance of 300 or 400 yards, and with the result before stated. It was a mere chance that one of the men was not killed. In the absence of a municipal government there is no remedy for these things. A man may build a hog pen in the very heart of the city, stow powder wherever he likes and set off blasts wherever he pleases. But this is a free country, you know, and that's Exchange. California street, San over the glass door at the main entrance, free country, you know, and that's what's the matter.

GIVE US A MONEY ORDER OFFICE. was hoped some time ago that Pioche would be made a money order office, but SCOTT, THE WOMAN-BEATER. - This individual, whom we mentioned in yester day's issue as having been arrested for beating a negro woman, has departed.

On the evening of his arrest Sheriff
Travis received a telegraphic warrant from Salt Lake for the arrest of Scott, who, it seems, atole three Government horses there. In order that delay might be the cause of no difficulty Scott was sent off on his road to Salt Lake in a buggy. May all those like him follow his footsteps away from Pioche.

SALE YESTERDAY.—The sale of the personal property of the late John H. Lynch was began and ended yesterday afternoon. The articles generally were those of a perishable nature, and we understand they brought very good prices.

DEATH OF A FINE BOAR. - James Pieron's fine Magee boar, imported here from Chicago at a cost of $125, died on Wednesday. It is quite a loss to Mr. Pierson, and also to all who desire to improve the breed of their swine.

THE larceny cases of Lambert and Wilcox were postponed until Wednesday next, in the District Court yesterday.

THEATER.-To-night will be presented the "Sea of Ice." Every indication is favorable for success. SHOWERY. - Yesterday was rather show
